

Meet Wolfville's Leadership Candidate 2019...

Chantal Peng

Chantal Peng is the 19-year-old daughter of Jianan and Gwen Peng. An avid leader and public speaker, Chantal graduated from Horton High School in 2018 with Honors with Distinction and was the recipient of the Lieutenant Governor Education Award. Currently enrolled as a music student at Acadia University, she aspires to be a music educator or a human rights lawyer. Due to her passion for gender equality and healthcare, she traveled to Ghana in West Africa as a Plan International Canada Youth Advocate, experiencing first-hand the impact of strengthened community commitment. A firm believer in youth engagement, Chantal is a Kings Youth Councillor, advocating better youth representation and involvement. A Nova Scotia Youth Volunteer of the Year nominee, Chantal loves to volunteer in her community by organizing benefit concerts, food drives, and facilitating social justice workshops for children and youth of all ages in her Wolfville community and abroad. As well, Chantal loves playing the piano. A Nova Scotia Talent Trust recipient, she received first prize at the national Canadian Music Competition, was invited to play at Carnegie Hall, and currently serves as the organist for St. James Anglican Church. Her hobbies include reading and enjoying Wolfville's walking trails. Chantal is thrilled to represent Wolfville's vibrant multicultural community at this year's Festival.

Meet Wolfville's Child Attendant 2019...

My name is Eve. That is my nickname. My real name is Evangeline Schneider. I am the child of Stephen and Meg. I am 8 years old and I am in Grade Three at Wolfville Elementary School. I am very excited to be an attendant to the princess and to go on the parade float with her. I have been in the parade before but not on a float. I actually didn't know I was going to be in the parade until my dad told me. My grandmother - Janet Townsend - was the 24th Queen Annapolisa in 1956.
